- 1 Do not touch, pick up or feed the animal. Do not return the animal to the water.
- 2 Observe the animal from a distance of at least 50 feet. Keep people and dogs away.
- 3 Note physical characteristics such as size, presence of external ears and fur color.
- 4 Note the animal's condition. Is it weak or skinny? Does it have any open wounds?
- 5 Look for any obvious identification tags or markings.
- 6 Determine the animal's exact location for accurate reporting.
- 7 Call The Marine Mammal Center with as much information as you have.
